if r d and innovation in the 1990s were about more internationalization more corporate entrepreneurship and more information integration then the 2000s have been about consolidating and expanding these trends further more globalization including the technology mavericks of china and india more open and inbound innovation integrating external technology providers and more web and intern enabling of innovation processes by involving r d contributors regardless of their location the corporate r d powerhouses of the 1980s are now mostly history even where they survived they had to yield to corporate efficiency efforts and business wide integration programs still it would be unfair to belittle them in retrospect as they have found new roles in corporate r d and innovation n works in fact the very successes of centralized r d organizations of the 1970s and 1980s made possible the revolution of globalized innovation that we have been witnessing since the 1990s the first two editions of managing global innovation published in 1999 and 2000 were testimonials of an increasingly internationalizing world of innovation and r d in this third edition of managing global innovation we have retained the basic structure of two conceptual parts i and ii and three case study parts iii iv v however we have greatly revised all chapters including the final imp cations chapter part vi and incorporated new chapters and cases that illuminate and describe the recent trends in the context of the beginnings of global innovation in the 1980s and 1990s this book was born from curiosity to begin with it was the curiosity of an economist who studied in the 60 s in an environment which has subsequently developed from national into global economics who has to recognize that politicians scholars and large segments of society oblivious to supranational authorities and e nomic globalization forces continue to labour under the notion that they are still fully autonomous and sovereign when shaping national economic policy and pretend as though their own national state were still the m ter in its own house that despite unbridled market economics could c tinue to dictate to the economy and companies how to live and in which rooms all that has become fiction the laws of globalization diminish the noeuvring space for shaping national economic policy even if many folks today don t want to hear it the issue is no longer achieving what is soc politically desirable for the own society but rather the optimal adaptation of society and social benefits to the politically practicable
